

Ori
'your everyday light'

We Humans have a very strong connection with nature. Its varying light affects us in more ways than we know, Among many benefits of light is how natural light can influence our emotions.

It holds the power to alter our mood.

Ori is a mood light lamp, inspired from the colours of the sky. It gives us the freedom to recreate the effects of natural light in our home. We can manually choose the light from our favourite time of the day irrespective of what time it is.

Ori is designed as a statement piece for our homes and drives its form from the Sun itself, the main source of light known to man.

The main body of the light is designed in a way to create a sun-like light effect on the surface

The ring frame of the light is integrated with a feather touch panel that regulates the light. The touch points are positioned on the frame surface like the minutes on the clock. By simply swiping on this surface, it lets you choose the hue of light that represents that time of the day. With its pre-set function it even lets you save your favourite light colour of the day and control the intensity of light too. Now you have the freedom to create sunrise or sunset as per your desire.
